

BRIDAL GUIDE

MAGAZINE
THE HOW-TO FOR I DO

Cover Beauty

Take his breath away in a romantic wash of fresh, see-through makeup shades. To achieve a look similar to our cover model, Dawn Davidson, try using the Spring 1994 Kendari Collection by Givenchy Beauté. Begin by applying Light Concealing Foundation Hydrating Matte Finish in tiny dabs (on your forehead, chin, cheeks, and tip of nose), then use a sponge to even it out. Follow with a light dusting of Powder Prism to enhance the texture of your complexion. Next, enhance eyes using Coral No. 2 Eyeshadow Prism and Amber Brown No. 3 Eye Liner Pencil. To create longer, more luxurious lashes, apply Brown No. 53 Perfect Mascara. Contour cheeks while adding a sheer warm glow with Apricot No. 5 Powder Blush. Lips become even lovelier with a kiss of Pink No. 83 Sheer Moisture Lipstick. J. F. Lazartigue Hair Styling Spray increases volume and shine while providing long-lasting hold. Her fragrance: Amarige by Parfums Givenchy.

SPRING BLOOMS: Choose your bridal bouquet from the season's best. What could be a more welcome harbinger of spring than this sunshine yellow and emerald green arrangement, created by Kurt Rausch for Flowers in New York City. The lush bouquet contains pairs of yellow calla lilies, roses, ranunculus, Queen Anne's lace, alstromeria, and mimosa, with green ivy vines, anthurium leaves, plumosus asparagus, and calendula.

Beauty Solutions

Answers to Your Questions

Q I've heard that layering a scent helps it last longer. Is this true and, if so, how do I go about doing it for my wedding day?

Norfolk, VA

A Applying a fragrance in layers does intensify its impact and extends its staying power for hours. In order to reap the advantages of layering a scent, Gun Bauchner, president of the Perfumer's Workshop in New York City, suggests bathing or showering with a scented soap or cleanser, then moving on to the matching body cream, lotion or dry oil spray, and powder. Finally, apply dabs of the perfume, cologne, or eau de toilette on your pulse points.

Q My fiancé and I are looking forward to getting a tan on our honeymoon, but how can we also avoid burning?

Madison, WI

A Tanning damages the skin and is not recommended by dermatologists, but if you must, follow these rules.

Avoid noonday sun. Your chances of developing a sunburn are greatest between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Always wear a sunscreen. According to Alan Kling, M.D., a New York City dermatologist, if your skin tans easily, you should apply a sunscreen with an SPF (sun protection factor) of 10 for the first few days, then switch to an SPF 8 or 6. If your skin is fair and burns easily, start with at least an SPF 12. Apply sunscreen 30 minutes before going out, and reapply it every hour and after swimming or sweating.

Don't let your guard down. Remember that you can burn on a cloudy or overcast day, and it's easier to burn at higher altitudes (be careful hiking) and on very windy days.

PHOTOGRAPH BY GEN. HAIR BY MITCHELL BEHR FOR GRAY'S SALON. MAKEUP BY GUILLERMO HERRERA FOR GENE MARTINEZ